Some Notable Victories

The outstanding team victory of the year in track and field athletics was the University of California's third consecutive triumph in the Eastern Intercollegiate meet. Walter Christie's team carried the trophy back to the coast due almost entirely to their efforts in the field events. California also won the Pacific coast conference meet. The University of Michigan won both the Western conference and the National Intercollegiate meet, while the Illinois Athletic club scored notable victories in the National Indoor meet, and the National Outdoor Junior and Senior championships.

University High school of Chicago won the annual Intercollegiate meet at Stagg field, their victory being featured by the sprinting records set by Gen. Goodwin.

Yale and Harvard and Oxford and Cambridge held an international track meet, the Britons winning six events, while the Americans won five, one event being a tie.

The first National Women's track and field meet was held at Newark, N. J., on September 23th. Kathryn Lee, who jumped 4 feet, 10 7/8 inches, and Helen Blakey, who ran the 60-yard hurdles in 3 1/2 seconds, and running broad jumps, 15 feet, 6 3/8 inches, set new records during the year.

Charley Daddock, "world's fastest human," got himself in bad with the powers that be by going to Paris to run in a meet when the A. A. U. said he couldn't. As he represented the University of Southern California, and did not have to ask the A. A. U.'s permission, it looks as though his disqualification was mostly due to the power of a "little group of willful men" at being slighted.

Had the school been able to make but a comparatively few of the many shots which they missed the team might have been quite different. In addition to being woefully lacking in accuracy the shooting was in the drawing room and missed shot after shot, many of which should have been sure winners. The rivalry was none too strong in the shooting line at times, the white jerseyed athletes failing to make several easy shots.

Couch Klendworth used plenty of substitutes and at one time had a team on the floor composed entirely of bench warmers. The substitutes appeared to be fully as fast as the first all men but their shooting was not so good. The game was rough in spots and many fouls were called. Both sides were lamentably weak in foul shooting, however.

Delaney was again the high school star. The diminutive forward was fast as lightning in his floor work, passed with speed and accuracy and showed a good eye for the basket. McGuinness and Ferman played strong, heady games. Of the substitutes Orr and Bates showed up the best, each playing a good floor game and accounting for a basket apiece.

The alumni quartet included three men, Dilleo, Bush and Hemstreet, who gave the variety much to think about. The other members of the team worked hard but were not particularly dangerous opponents. Little played his usual hard game and accounted for most of his team's points. Bush lacked his former pluck, it seemed, but still possessed a considerable wallop and did some excellent playing. Hemstreet was in the midst of things continually.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

What equipment do you recommend as standard for a player?

Answered by DR. FORREST ALLEN

Director of athletics, University of Kansas, his team won the championship in the nation last year and has been undefeated for 27 straight games.

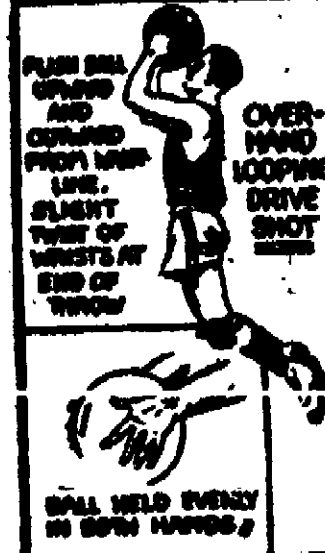

The player's outfit should consist of:

A bright colored wool shirt. A pair of short, washed pants. A pair of basketball shoes with soles heavy enough to protect the feet from blisters. Two pairs of sanitary cotton socks, to be worn together in order to bring the friction between the two socks instead of between the sock and the foot.

One pair of footless woolen athletic stockings to be worn over the sanitary stocking.

One "warm-up" two piece pajama outfit to protect the player from cold when he is not in action. A hood attachment to this pajama shirt is splendid as it keeps the back of the neck warm, which is essential to good condition, as the back of the neck controls the nerve supply to the arms.

How is the overhead looping drive shot for a basket executed?

Answered by HOWARD S. OWEN

Coach, Cornell university, known for his brilliant, aggressive teams.

Place the hands on the upper half of the ball with fingers spread and pointing down, thumbs pointing up, arms in close to body and bent. With the ball evenly balanced in both hands, bring it near the body above the waistline. Push ball upward and outward toward the basket, giving the wrists a slight upward turn as you let the ball go so that it has its proper English, or twist. Body should be erect when shot is completed.

COLUMBIA TO ROW HARVARD.

First Water Between Two in Great Many Years.

New York, Dec. 21.—Columbia and Harvard will meet in a rowing regatta at Cambridge, May 10, in the first competition on the water between them in so many years that authorities at Morningside Heights were unable tonight to ascertain exactly when they last stroked against each other. It will be a triangular affair between the New York and Cambridge institutions and Pennsylvania. Previous to the Cambridge regatta, Columbia and Pennsylvania will row a triangular meet with Yale at Lake Umbagog, May 2. The Cambridge regatta will be for varsity boats only, however. Varsity, junior varsity and 150-pound crews will row at Derby.

MORE PROMPT INFORMATION.

Relative to New York State Motor

Car Licenses After January 1.

In the past much inconvenience has been caused and some offenders have been able to get away because of inability to ascertain the owner's name of a certain motor car license number. This information has been obtainable only from Albany office of the Motor Vehicle bureau, and only from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

By arrangement with the New York city police department it will be supplied with a complete list of all licenses issued within 24 hours after they are issued. Police officers and others will be able to secure the information relative to the owner and address at all times of the day or night of the New York city police headquarters. The arrangement becomes effective January 1.

The guests are coming. You are sure of your dinner, but a wee bit worried about the desert. Flavor it with Baker's vanilla and your worries will be over.

This is your last chance. Fifteen nice holly wreaths at Palmer's grocery.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

The crowded streets of Oneonta, and of every other trading center, the handsomely decorated show windows, the attractive displays of goods of endless variety in stores and shops, the bright, albeit a little anxious and hurried, look which stamps itself on the face of each shopper, is evidence, if any were needed, that Christmas is at hand. There are now only two days ahead, and in that time everything must be bought that is to be bought, everything made that is to be made, and everything planned that is to be planned before the dawn of that wonderful anniversary, observed as best we may in remembrance of the great gift by the Great Giver.In every comfortable home there will be this remembrance by giving, and even those who are poor must be taken of each expenditure there will be gifts bestowed with the double purpose of expression of personal affection and of faith in God, through whose kindness all that we may do is made possible; and outside the home this giving will extend to relatives and friends, and to all embraced in the circle of affectionate remembrance.But, it is worth recalling, if we stop here, we have fallen short of living up to the ideal of Christmas giving. There are multitudes in state and nation, some in every community, to whom the holiday season brings no such measure of joy as above is pictured, who may be old, or infirm, or poor, or in the intimate sense friendless. All such should be remembered if we are to make full manifestation of the true Christmas spirit.The Salvation Army bell at the street corners, and the accompanying kettle for gifts, call attention to the needs of the organization, and those needs should be heeded and that appeal answered, as in fact it seems largely to be. There should be no disillusion of that giving, but no one should for an instant believe that this giving or that for other forms of organized charity, absolves from further obligation. To visit the solitary, to comfort the friendless, to minister to the sick in their affliction and above all to give out of the fullness of a heart which hopes to receive nothing other than the after all the finest gift which can be performed in memory of the day.The Salvation Army bell at the CITY AND BANK TAX REFUND.

Unquestionably the thing which during the past few days has been cause for most discussion and concern, alike among the members of the city government and citizens generally, is the bank-tax refund, which was presented at the meeting of the common council on Tuesday evening in the form of a communication from the county treasurer. As is generally understood, it is a notice that the city will be expected to pay during the current year to banking institutions a definite sum of money, known as the bank tax refund, to make good taxes collected in previous years, the assessment of which has been by the supreme court of the United States declared unconstitutional.Should the entire sum be required, the city would be asked to pay $10, $20-$30 during the coming year.Just how this sum can be raised is the problem. The city, under the provisions of its charter, is restricted to one per cent as the total municipal tax levy outside of interest and principal on its bonded debt. The total budget is not a large one, and the reasonable requests of the several commissions have been ruthlessly scaled down. After this is done, comes the demand for over $10,000 with no way to raise it except by taking it out of a budget from which the last available dollar has been appropriated to carry on the year's work. To cut down the budgets of the several commissions still further would be a serious mistake, and unquestionably would prejudice public health and safety, as well as the care of the streets, protection from fire and the other demands of necessity perform.From the multitude of suggestions which have been made, the one most feasible seems to be that the city, neglecting to make the required appropriation, should permit the banks to pay. There is a charter provision which allows for the payment of judgments. If, therefore, judgment should be secured, the city could issue bonds and satisfy the claim. In the meantime the general administration of city affairs would not be interfered with. Certainly, as every citizen knows, the appropriations have been cut to the bone, and further cutting or the budget would seem impossible.

State Civil Service Examination.

On Saturday, January 13, there will be civil service examinations in Oneonta and other cities in the state for many positions. The state service commission, composed of Governor, Attorney General, and Judges, will be in charge. The examinations will be held at the state capitol in Albany. The positions for which the examinations will be held are for clerks, stenographers, and other positions in the state government.

IMPORTANT CONSIDERATIONS

Mr. Hughes Shows His Evidence.

The evidence which Secretary Hughes has wisely published to substantiate his charge of "continued (Soviet) propaganda to overthrow the institutions of this country," is the strongest justification of his rebuff of the Soviet government's diplomatic advances that can be cited. If the Moscow dictatorship is still seeking by propaganda to overthrow our government and the constitutional system upon which it rests, it need not expect that its proposals for recognition will be heard in this country with sympathetic attention.It is deplorable to have so vast a country as Russia with such a large population, and with such a long complete economic and diplomatic contacts with other countries, including our own. It is harmful to the economic recuperation of the world and to our own export trade as well.
Yet if agencies within the control of the Soviet government continue openly or covertly to seek the overthrow of our government and institutions, as Secretary Hughes charges, that government cannot complain of the cool reception of its proposals for the re-establishment of diplomatic relations.—(Springfield Republican.)

Bone Dry Convention.

Republican leaders who are already planning to go to the Republican national convention to be held in Cleveland June 10, may be saddened, or gladdened, as the case may be, by an announcement that the convention will be a bone dry. This announcement has been made by the state prominent commissioner of Ohio, who says that "bone dryness" will prevail if he can keep it so.—(Utica Press.)

"Repeal"—or the Deluge.

The partial repeal of war taxes—for that is what President Coolidge recommends and what the people demand—is the first duty of congress.
The Republican party cannot dodge this issue. It cannot escape it by thrusting forward the bonus question or any other question. So long as the people's living is pinched because of excessive taxes they will demand relief. If denied this relief when it is possible to grant it, they will strike down those responsible for their unnecessary hardships. When they strike, it is with a heavy hand that takes no heed of individuals. Good and bad Republicans, presidents, senators, congressmen, governors, county and city supervisors, all will go down if the people are not given this relief by the Republican party in congress.—(Washington Post.)

The Myra of Today.

In the eyes of today's progressivism that of yesterday becomes traitorous conservatism. Yesterday's leaders sat dust in the rear ranks today. Nevertheless, Washington is a queer city and the senate is a strange place with a magic of its own. It takes them clad in overalls and bearing pigfords and somehow tames them. Politics is a drab world.—(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

Harding Memorial Campaign.

New York state, it is announced, has gone into the Harding Memorial campaign with spirit and determination. A total of $150,000 was set for the state, and of this sum a special gifts committee in New York city $10,000. Elsewhere in the state there is enthusiasm and it is expected that the quota will be reached.

WHY ABOUT YOUR BRAKES?

If you want to stop a motor car you first take off the power and then apply the brakes.Someone has well said that "the engine is the best brake that a car can possess granting that the driver knows how to use it so as to get the best results without doing any damage."Did you ever think about that as applied to that body of yours?Your body like the engine is running along nicely when the necessary arises for a stop.If your body is understood by you, is really under your control, you can stop far enough ahead that the use of the brakes is almost unnecessary.control for the ordinary "stops" that occur in life.But what of the extraordinary "stops" that may arise? Is that body of yours prepared for them?If you have been careless with your body, you have had to apply the brakes for every little stop, what kind of shape will it be in when you have to put on the emergency brake?What do I mean?
Well, you have got into the habit of overeating, very often suffer with gas, indigestion, and constipation.
You eat on your brakes then by taking medicines to get rid of the trouble.
That is some wear on your brakes.
Perhaps you have been exhausting yourself with excesses, keeping late hours, perhaps even working or studying too hard. Your system begins to suffer and you put on brakes by taking quieting medicines or sleeping pills.You see your engine—the body—is not under your control all the time and you apply the brakes for every little stop. Then along comes the emergency stop—some unexpected accident—your brakes are put on. This is your last chance of strength. If you are not in good health and really in control.Will they hold? They may hold. All right and carry you through, but the constant wear and tear you have put on your brakes by your indiscretions has worn them out, and a few more your car.Keep your engine that body of yours under control at all times, and very little braking will be necessary.Fancy coupons for News at Kellam's

BY HENRY VANDYKECHRISTMAS GIVING AND CHRIST-MAS LIVING.Thanks be to God for his ungrakable gift—His love. 9:15.The custom of making presents on a certain day in the year is much older than Christmas.It has obtained in many ages and among many different nations.
It is a fine thing of a foolish thing, as the case may be, an encouragement to friendliness, or a tribute to fashion, or an expression of good nature, or a bid for favor, or a cheerful old custom, or a futile old farce, according to the spirit which animates it and the form which it takes.It is then the ancient tradition of a day of gifts was transferred to the Christmas season, it was brought into contact with an idea which now has a different meaning, and which now is a gift. But it is up to a higher plane.The example is the life of Jesus.
He came to a world where the happiness of others
The great gift of Jesus to the world was himself.
He lived with and for men.
He kept back nothing.
In every particular and person and that he made to certain people there was something of himself that made it precious.(Copyright, 1922, by The Republic

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

Special Christmas Night in Normal Department on Friday — Christmas Cards Made and Sold by Pupils in the Garden—Vacation Notes.

Special exercises were held in assembly yesterday morning at 10:30 a. m. The program was given by the student body. Following the scripture reading the Glee club sang four very beautiful Christmas carols. Miss Esther Greene sang an aria, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion, from the Christmas portion of the Messiah. The selection was sung very beautifully and as usual Miss Greene received enthusiastic applause. For an encore she sang a French Noel in the English translation. Dr. P. L. Baggie then gave a short address on the splendid spirit manifested by both faculty and students of the Normal school. The program was concluded with the recessional.

Much interest has been manifested in the Christmas cards which have been on sale in the corridors during the past week. The cards were designed, printed and colored by the pupils in the seventh and eighth grades. The cards will be exhibited in Lauren and Lowe's show window. Many of the members of the faculty will spend the Christmas vacation at their homes. Miss Esther Greene is to spend the greater part of the vacation at her home in Lowell, Mass. Miss Irene Posthill goes to her home in Syracuse. Miss Mabel F. Vaughan will spend her vacation at her home in Bradford. Miss Kate M. Crisman goes to her home in Schenectady. Miss Maude Williamson and her mother are to spend the vacation at their home in Albany. Miss Eleanor Hosenquist left yesterday afternoon for her home in Yonkers. MISS KELLOGG RESIGNS

Instructor in Public Schools of Oneonta for 20 Years Will End Her Career Teaching Career at End of Present School Year.

Miss Frances Kellogg, the oldest teacher in point of service in the public schools of Oneonta, has tendered her resignation to the Board of Education effective at the end of the school year. Miss Kellogg will spend the summer in California and will then take up her residence with her sister in Unadilla.

For nearly 40 years students in the public schools of Oneonta have received instruction in more than book knowledge from Miss Kellogg and many a student of Oneonta looks back with pleasure upon days spent under the guidance of one whose example and guidance has meant as much to them as they have faced the problems of life as the actual knowledge which they gained under her supervision. Her career has been one of unselfish devotion to her high calling and with her, as she steps from one of the ranks of the teaching profession, will go the best wishes of hundreds of former pupils as well as many others who have been privileged with her acquaintance.

Miss Kellogg was born and bred in Gilbertville and obtained her education and training for teaching there under the tutelage of the late Prof. Abel Wood. She was sprung from a race of teachers, as both her grandfather and her great-grandfather were of that calling. One of her most prized possessions is a class room register dated "1885" and kept by her great-grandfather.

Miss Kellogg commenced teaching in 1876 and has taught continuously since that date, all but two years of the time in New York state. Those two years were spent in Lowell, Pa. Thirty-eight years ago the first of January she came to Oneonta from Gilbertville, where she was principal of the school, to take the place in the Union school of Miss Laura Hunt. She taught in the old Union school building until it was replaced by the present High school building. She is at present teaching the advanced seventh grade and has occupied the same room since the building was erected.

When Miss Kellogg became connected with the Oneonta schools there were but two schools in the system, the Union school on Academy street and the school at the corner of Miller street and West Broadway, whose place has since been taken by the River street school building. She has thus witnessed nearly the entire development of the present splendid system of public schools.

When she came to Oneonta Dr. J. Yager was president of the Board of Education and Nathaniel Bull principal of the High school. There was no superintendent of schools. The first year the following names were upon the teaching roll of the village: Mary Bull, vice-principal; Jennie Fairchild, Anna Manning, Julia Wright, Libbie Sloan, Julia Phillips, Maude Smith, Clara Stewart, Miss Fraser, Gertrude Fletcher, Rose Farley, Carrie McCann, Lizzie VanVranken and Lettie Youngman.

During the 38 years that Miss Kellogg has taught in the Oneonta schools it is safe to say that more than 2,000 pupils have come under her supervision. Her personality was such that she is undoubtedly most kindly remembered by such of them as are now living. Most of them are probably now fathers or mothers and some are even grandfathers and grandmothers.

A remarkable record indeed is Miss Kellogg's, one that she can look back upon with the true pride that comes with having put one's best into the daily duties of life.

HARTWICK NEWS

Death of William Henry Bristol, Sr.
Hartwick, Dec. 21.—The death of William Henry Bristol, Sr., occurred at his home, where he resided with his only son, William, on the night of December 20th. Mr. Bristol had been confined to his bed for the past few months. He was born on June 22, 1824, being in his 98th year, and was a life-long resident of the town of Hartwick, and had lived for more than 50 years upon the farm where he died. He was an industrious, practical and Christian man, and was a member of the Christian church at Hartwick for 25 years. Since the death of his wife, Melissa Quail, five years ago, he has resided with and been tenderly cared for by his son, William, and wife. He is survived by his son, and an only grandchild, Lillian. The funeral will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m., from his late home. Rev. Albert Lusk of the Christian church at Hartwick will officiate, and interment will be made in the Fly Creek Valley cemetery.

Charles Lee, Earl Jaeger and Alfred Jaeger, in Delhi—Three Complex Mers—Ship Can by Mowing Machine—Now Able to Walk.

Delhi, Dec. 21.—Charles Lee, who is under grand jury indictment for second degree larceny and who had shipped his bail, was lodged in jail here Wednesday night. Sheriff Arbuckle made a trip to Delhi and returned with his prisoner. Lee had forged checks cashed at Wallen some time ago.

Married at the Second Presbyterian parsonage, December 14 by Rev. T. C. Bookhout, William Edward Dorn of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Miss Mabel Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bouton of this village. At the second Presbyterian parsonage by Mr. Bookhout on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 18, Millard F. Russell of Potomac and Miss Isabel Hyzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hyzer of Andover, Mr. and Mrs. Russell will be at home in Bovina Center on their return from their trip. A third wedding in town was that of Walter R. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Mason of Peak's Brook, and Mrs. Frances Crapner, a professional nurse who has been engaged in her vocation in and about Delhi. This marriage took place at the Baptist parsonage Monday evening, Dec. 17, Rev. Louis Loesch officiating.

Moving Machine Victim Walks.
Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Shaw are rejoicing in the improved condition of their little son, Orlando, Jr., who is now able to walk, and with only a slight lameness which it is thought will in time entirely disappear. The child was so badly cut on a mowing machine late in the summer that it was thought unlikely the leg could be saved, but Dr. Goodrich sewed up the long gash which has healed nicely.

Agricultural School News.
Miss Valada Bear of the training class is ill at her home on Norton Hill.

Everett Hovey, who has been ill with neuritis at the home of Director DuBois, is recovering.

Director DuBois attended the annual meeting of the Junior Extension workers at Ithaca, Monday and Tuesday.

The annual Christmas tree, which is a great event at the school, was held in the chapel on Thursday. Christmas vacation extends from Dec. 21 to January 2.

Several new students are enrolled for short course which begins at the opening of school on January 2.

The director has arranged with the agronomy department of the state college of agriculture for careful experimental work on cauliflower-growing and pasture improvement. Suggestions of desirable tests are invited from farmers. The plant breeding department at the college will continue its cooperative work with the University of Cornell and the New York State College of Agriculture and Forestry. Six kinds of alfalfa and seven kinds of clover seed from different sources were put in last summer for the purpose of determining the ones which best resist winter killing.

Personal Mention.
Albert Smith, who has been engaged in lumbering here, moved this week to Marquette onto the Charles T. Telford farm. — Mrs. Helene M. A. Arundel, who is teaching in Pratt Institute, New York, arrives tomorrow to pass the holidays with her daughter, Edith, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mason. — Mrs. R. A. Birdall left this morning for Springfield, Mass., where she will be a holiday guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tuckey. — Mr. Birdall later will go to Springfield to remain over the holiday.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Give One For Christmas

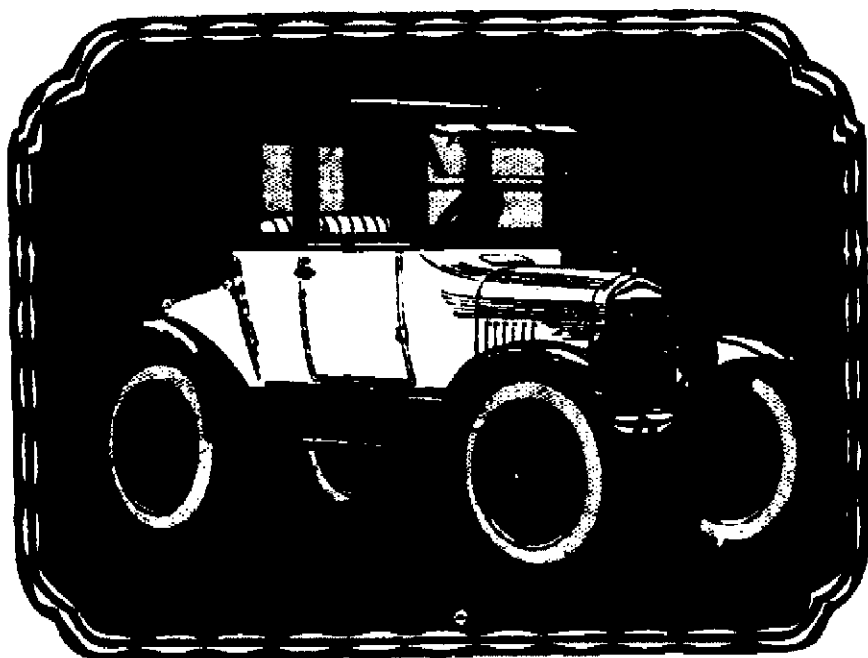

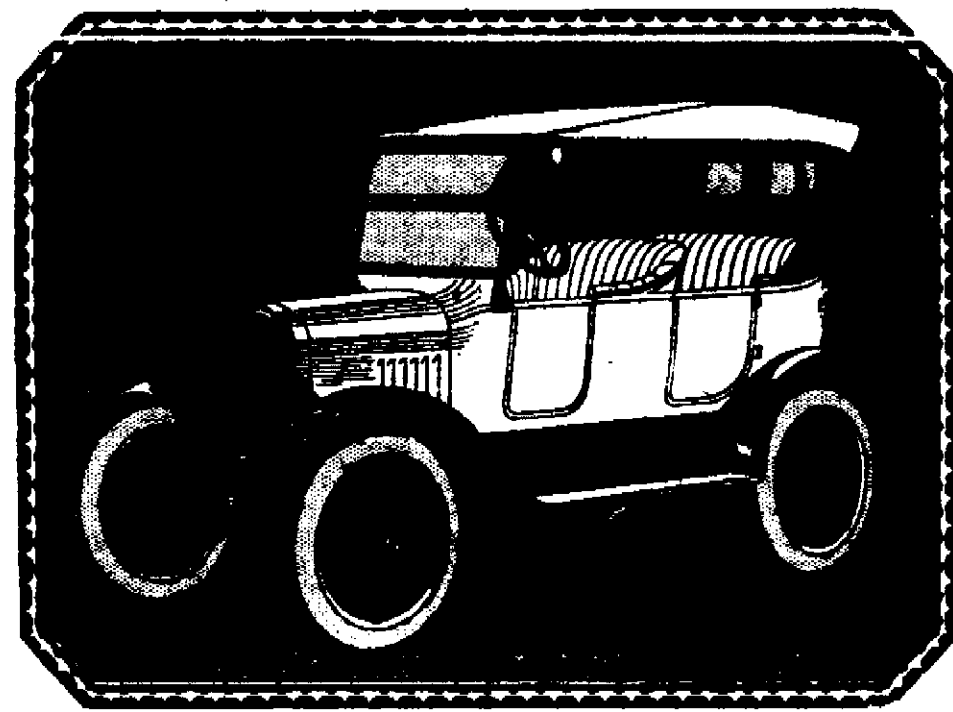

The Tudor Sedan is a gift every member of the family will share. It adds to daily happiness. It will extend the joyous spirit of Christmas to every day of the year.

This new Ford type is of an exceptionally pleasing design. Wide doors opening forward, folding right front seat, and a roomy interior make it a convenient car to use; its high radiator, broad cowl, sun visor, and large windows make it stylish in appearance. Yet it is sold at the lowest price ever asked for a Sedan—only $590 f. o. b. Detroit.

The rich permanent luster of its finish, the quiet good taste of its upholstery, and the ornamental treatment of its full-nickel hardware, all help to make it a car you are proud to drive.

This Car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan Justice A. E. Kellogg Has Many Matters at Chambers Here Yesterday — Several Others Adjourned.

At chambers in this city yesterday Justice A. E. Kellogg heard several matters of the supreme court and still others were adjourned until Monday or Friday of next week.

Following is a summary of the proceedings before Justice Kellogg yesterday:

Committee of Emily Bech.

In the matter of the application for the appointment of a committee of the person and property of Emily Bech, an alleged incompetent person. Return of the inquisition with Lincoln L. Kellogg as commissioner, including the report of the jury, read and filed. The petitioner, Charlotte King, requested in writing the appointment of the Wilber National bank as committee of the property of the said incompetent.

Order granted appointing Charlotte King committee of the person and the Wilber National bank committee of the property of the incompetent and committee of the property directed to give a bond to be approved by the court.

Frank C. Huntington for petitioner. Newcomb-Bordinger for damages.

William E. Neuer against Frank Bordinger.

Action to recover for damages to plaintiff's household goods and furniture while they were being moved by the defendant from New Berlin to Mount Vision. The contention of the plaintiff is that the same was materially damaged in transit. The defendant claims there was no damage, that in any event, he did not agree that the goods should be transported without damage and that he moved the same at the plaintiff's risk in that respect.

The case was adjourned for the purpose of hearing the evidence of a witness of the defendant who was temporarily absent from the city.

Appearance: George L. Becker for plaintiff, Everett B. Holmes for defendant.

Action of Foreclosure.

James H. Mahar and another against George W. Blanchard et al. Action of foreclosure. Proofs heretofore taken, judgment of foreclosure and sale directed. By request, Lincoln L. Kellogg appointed referee to sell. Claude V. Smith for plaintiff, George L. Gibbs for defendant.

Hearings Monday and Friday.

Alva E. Walling and another against Harry M. Place and another was set down for trial for Monday at 3 o'clock a. m.

Appearance: Lynn W. Hathaway for plaintiff, Claude V. Smith for defendant.

The action of Grace Emeline Stanton against Albert Chauncy Stanton was set for hearing December 27th at 2 p. m.

Appearance: Franklin C. Keyes for plaintiff, Dennis J. Kilkenny for defendant.

Mahlon D. York against Francis Salisbury will come on for trial December 27, at 10 o'clock.

Appearance: Charles C. Flanagan for plaintiff, Herbert Kibbe for defendant.

THE JOB OF BEING A DAD

By FRANK H. CHELEY

President Father and Son League of America

No. 18—Are You Your Boy's Companion?

Most men say they never knew their fathers. Happy, indeed, is the boy who has known through the formative period of youth the kind benevolence of a sympathetic, understanding dad.

"No father who is his boy's chum and confidant need worry very much about the future of his son. That kind of a kid goes the other way and he generally travels with a good head of steam."

I never knew my father until I was a man. Somehow we never seemed to have anything in common. I so often misunderstood him and he so often misunderstood me, and as I look back over it now, with him gone these several years, I am certain of the reason—we did not do things together. We were not comrades. Our interest lay in entirely different fields, we thought, but all the time there was just a mere fence of reserve separating us.

How well I remember what happened when one day as a full-grown man I returned from a little hike in the mountains and announced that I was simply crazy to build a log cabin. I can see the smile on his face now and the twinkle in his gray eyes—"You want to build a log cabin—why, that has been one of my secret ambitions all these years, but I didn't suppose that you—"

"Why, dad," I gulped, "I've always—"

"Then let's go do it."

They were very happy days, cutting the logs, getting in the million stones that went into that old fireplace, sleeping on a browse bed of white spruce, eating indigestible flapjacks and biscuits and working together. Slowly the ugly little shanty went up and how proud we were of it. It was ours and we had built it with our little hatchets.

Then the last night came, supper was over and we stood side by side by the fire—just dreaming. It had been such a delicious experience for both of us—for an old, bent, gray-haired man, and for a son grown tall scarcely without realizing it. He came round to my side of the fire and put his arm on my shoulder and then said, half wistfully, "Kid, we've missed a lot, haven't we?"

One of the most touching little yarns of the war is the story of a big, strong, young officer who walked down to the liner in France the night it was to sail for America, carrying back a friend to his home. And when it came time for the parting, that great big boy stuck out his iron hand and with a grip that told volumes said to his departing friend, "Gill, when you see my dad—just say to him, won't you, that I miss him." That is the relationship that makes men.

There are thousands of American dads that are falling with their boys and explaining to the busy old world that they were too busy; and, as Josh Billings wisely tells us, "there is no use explaining to your friends, they already know and society won't believe you if you do explain."

RETURN TO D. & H. RUMORED

Albany Hears Sims Will Soon Resume Official Position at General Offices in Albany.

Gilford S. Sims, former vice president and general manager of the Delaware and Hudson railroad with offices in Albany, is said to be scheduled to return to duty as an official of the railroad.

Colonel J. Tabor Lorce, the present vice president and general manager, could not be reached to verify the report of the return of Mr. Sims, but talk of a change in official personnel of the railroad has been general in the last two days.

At Mr. Lorce's office, a report that H. F. Burch, assistant general manager, might be supplanted, was denied, but no one would comment on the Sims' story.

The apparent victory of Deeper Hudson advocates in obtaining favorable preliminary action by United States engineers on the deep channel project is thought in some quarters to be responsible for the move to get Mr. Sims back among the D. & H. officials. While in office Mr. Sims was a consistent advocate of the Deeper Hudson, and also projected several plans for rail and water terminals in Albany.

With the coming of ocean traffic to Albany, the Delaware and Hudson would need a deep water terminal, and the reports are that to establish this terminal and bring traffic for his railroad through the new port will be part of Mr. Sims' new job.

A week ago at the annual dinner of the Hudson Valley Chambers of Commerce, Mr. Sims officially represented the Delaware and Hudson and pledged the president of that road, Leonor F. Lorce, to development of whatever terminals were necessary when the deep river is made a fact. Since his retirement from railroad work, Mr. Sims has established a large consulting practice in Montreal. —[Albany Journal.]

Light Franchise in Schoharie.
Albany, Dec. 21.—The Public Service commission Friday authorized the Fulton County Gas & Electric company to extend its lines and secure the towns of Esperance and Schoharie under franchise recently granted by the town boards. The company supplies current in Cobleskill. The company is in position to give service within a few months, and evidence upon the hearing showed that public convenience and necessity require the granting of the certificate to the Fulton county company to operate in these two towns.

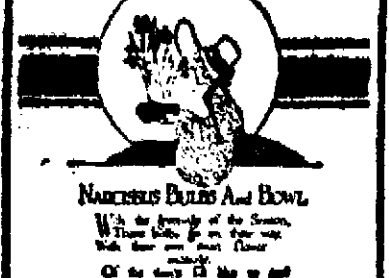

The commission at the same time denied an application by the Schoharie Valley Light & Power corporation for authority to operate in the towns of Duaneburgh and Schoharie. The Schoharie company opposed the granting of the Fulton county company's application, but the evidence submitted on behalf of the Schoharie company shows that it is not in a position to serve the public, and while it has secured various franchises in the past few years, no steps have been taken to develop the system to supply electricity.

TOWN HIGHWAY PROJECTS

Twenty-five Proposals Approved by Superintendents and Submitted to State Highway Department for Approval.
(Cooperstown, Dec. 2—Special).—A preliminary and resolution designating the highway projects and improvements in the county to be undertaken during the year 1935 other than known as county aid highway construction was offered at Thursday's session of the Board of Supervisors and was unanimously adopted.

Twenty-four of the twenty-five projects thus outlined were submitted for approval of the state Department of Public Works.

Such highways are one mile in length. Each town has that amount and the towns of Hartwick and Laurens have additional mileage. All the 24 roads are to have bituminous top macadam, save in Pittsfield and Milford, where they are of gravel top with oil, but there is some variation in the width of the roads and the thickness of the sub-base, varying apparently with the location and the probable use of the highways.

The county is in each instance to pay $2,500 toward the construction, and the townships are to pay $1,667 each. In a majority of instances, the new road is a continuation of last year's work.

The additional roadway in Laurens is from the Grange hall in Mt. Vision easterly and northerly to the New Lisbon line, a distance of three-fourths of a mile, for which the county pays $2,500; and in Hartwick the road is half a mile long and runs from Index toward Hartwick village. The county cost will be $1,500.

A resolution offered by Mr. Nelson appropriating the sum of $300 to assist in the work of the County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was made a special order of the day for Friday at 11 a. m.

The report of the committee on finance was upon motion of F. M. Smith taken from the table and adopted, together with the auditing reports of several standing committees offered on the preceding day.

A resolution appropriating $7,450 for the maintenance of state and county highways for the year 1934 was offered by the highway committee and it was unanimously adopted. The table showing the division among the various towns has already been published.

Various committees reported additional audits as follows: County clerk's work, claimed and allowed, $50; charities, claimed and allowed, $139.39; correction and reformation, claimed and allowed, $42.

The resolution of the highway committee reappointing Victor L. Hoke, county superintendent of highways for four years commencing January 1, 1934, at a salary of $2,000 per annum, in addition to his actual and necessary expenses, was unanimously adopted.
